PART TWO (69:03)

Act III: No. 12 – Chanson “Depuis hier je cherche en vain mon maître” (4:00)

OVERALL NOTES FOR THE MARKET

- The market is a neutral zone for both families. It is early morning, and everyone is going about their daily shopping routine.
- Vendors, set your carts on PINK spikes.
- Chorus can interact with flowers but do not buy anything – no one should have flowers in their hands once the fighting begins.
- Everyone should have an opinion about the fights depending on what family you are from and how the outcome of the fight is looking for your family. You can yell character names, gasp, cheer, etc.
- Market business is great! Just make sure the motions are not too fast and busy while principals are singing CS. Keep energy high and pace slower.
- Be aware of the people around you in the market – what family are they from, and how do you feel about them? Vendors and Non-Family Chorus should also have opinions on the people around them.
- Be aware of the sword fighters and make sure you are familiar with their path so you can get out of their way. CORO DSL, be aware that the fighters will exit out L2 mid-fight, so make sure you don’t get too far DS during the fight scene.
- Vendors – once the sword fighting begins, you can try to protect your flowers, etc.
- React appropriately when the DUKE accuses your families of causing violence with your hatred.
